RE: DUT's Partnership with ELET

Dear Sir/ Madam,

This letter serves to confirm that the Durban University of Technology (DUT) has formulated a partnership with the Environment and Learning Education Trust (ELET) in 2015 for the roll out of the ETDP SETA accredited National Certificate: Early Childhood Development and National Diploma: Early Childhood Development qualifications.

The foundation of the partnership was based on the desire to promote Early Childhood Development in South Africa in line with the goals of the National Development Plan 2030 (NDP 2030). Over the years both academia and government have recognised the need to focus on the foundational education that a learner receives in order to encourage greater development of learners.

The idea is that if a learner receives optimal brain stimulation from early on in their development, that they would flourish in the later years through their educational journey. Education is one of the key indicators for alleviating poverty and promoting greater growth. This will ultimately contribute towards the growth of the country and its people.

Should you require further clarity, please feel free to contact the undersigned.

Kind regards,

Dr Surendra Thakur
